THE STATE CANVASS.

W. A. JONES'S EXCORIATION OF

Our Candidate Captures the Easters Shore and Completely Uses Up Browne-Democrate in High Feather.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.) ONANCOCK, September 30, 1890. The joint discussion at Accomac Courtouse yesterday between Hon. William A. Jones, the Democratic candidate for Conin the First district, and Congress an Browne, his Republican competitor has been the constant theme of conversaand amusement among Democrats here since it occurred. Accomac is Mr. Frowne's home, and it was supposed by Browne's home, and it was supposed by some that his friends here would make some demonstration in his favor when he appeared before the people, but so few of his supporters were present at the courthouse yesterday that they made no efforts to get up any enthusiasm for their candidate, and from the beginning to the end of his speech there was not a single effort made to give him any applause. His speech fell still-born even on his own followers, while it provoked occasionally smiles of derision from the Democrats.

GROSSLY MISLEADING.

GRESSLY MISLEADING.

Some of Mr. Browne's statements were so grossly incorrect and misleading that he was interrupted twice by persons in the audience and with bad grace forced to acknowledge that he was wrong. Four years ago Mr. Browne had a considerable following among the white people of Accounts, but his record as a dodger on the infamous force bill and on the Langston-Venable contest has alienated many of tem from him, as was clearly proved at the meeting yesterday. It is afact that on every question that has required the extinction of any moral courage Browne has invariately dodged under one pretext or variably dodged under one pretext of Mr. Jones's speech was a complete success. He answered Browne on every point, refuted his fallacies, and ridiculed his saily ideas about finance and taxation. Time and again when Jones dealt his opposent some stunning blow the entire audience rose and cheered vigorously. The weakest point in Browne's speech was his attempt to justify his dodging the vote on the force bill and the Langston-Venable contested-election case. He confessed that elections were fair in Accomac and the other counties of the First district, and that if passed the bill would not have applied to this district. He also said he did not vote in the Langston-Venable election case because he did not think either one elected.

When Jones came to reply to Browne When Jones came to reply to Browne of these points his excoriation was terrific. He towed that Browne helped to make the publican quorum that passed the foreoill and seated Langston, and that with the presence in the House neither one of these infamous measures could have one summated. He told Browne that afte such conduct he did not see how he could not the face without having the blush of sham the face without having the blush of sham to mantle his cheek. These men migh the face without having the busin of shame to mantle his cheek. Those men might have excused him for voting to seat the insolent negro Langston, because he (Browne) owed his election to the negroes, but they would never forgive him for his oussi support of the force bill, which was intended to subjugate the South and put her under the sway of a corcupt Republi-can diseasely. can oligarchy.

BROWNE FITTED.

BROWNE FITTED.

Browne winced terribly under the excentation he received, and the handful of sympathizing Republicans who stood close by him looked as sad and sorrowful as if they were attending the funeral of the last triend they had in the world, while the Democrats went wild with delight and enthusiasm. Mr. Jones was compelled to stop speaking twenty minutes before his time expired in order to give Judge Gillet the court-house, but he had covered the ground so thoroughly and his triumph was so complete that the discussion was not resumed on the court-green, as many Democrats had hoped. Browne, in company with four of his followers, went of to console and comfort each other, while Jones remained on the ground, receiving a perfect ovalion from the people.

DR. WISE HAPPY.

DE. WISE HAPPY.

The happiest man in the creat crowd was Dr. John J. Wise, who in days gone by used to lead the Republican hosts of Accomac, and who remarked to your correspondent that he would not have taken such a drubbing as Jones gave Browne for a seat in Congress all his life and the presidency afterwards.

This was Mr. Jones's first visit to the Eastern Shore, but he has made hosts of friends, and the Democrats are proud of such a gallant and able standard-bearer. Mr. Jones left last night for the Western Shore, but he will return to Accomac in the latter part of October and spend tendays in making speeches on the Eastern Shore. Democrats here are in high spirits and confident of success. Kallaas.

JONES IN KING AND QUEEN. He Meets Blatant Stubbs and Demolisher

Him-The Issues Discussed. [Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

(Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

West Point, Va., October 2.—Hon, W. A. Jones and James M. Stubbs, the independent Republican candidate in the First district, spoke at King and Queen Courthouse to-day. Mr. Stubbs led off in a three-quarters of an hour speech, He said that he was a farmer's boy, and went in the war at fifteen. He was opposed to the Lodge bill. Mr. Browne was nominated by the office-holders, which was the reason he (Stubbs) bolted the convention. Browne claimed to be a great friend to the negro, but he would not yote to seat Langston.

Mr. Jones spoke an hour and a half, and kept the crowd thoroughly interested during his whole speech. The people continued to gather in the court-house all during his speech. He dwelf at length upon the tariff and presented it in a new and interesting way. He denounced the McKinley bill, and said it was a measure that would make the rich man richer and the poor man poorer, and that the bill was a measure passed in the interest of monopolist and northern capitalists. He spoke encuragingly of the Farmers' Alliance; said the farmers had not organized one minute too early, and that they had been cheated out of their rights long enough.

ALLIANCE DEMOCRACY. ISSUES INTELLIGENTLY DISCUSSED.

ALLIANCE DEMOCRACY. He read passages from the platform of the Farmers' Alliance and said that it was good enough Democracy for him. He said the Republicans had promised to pass the Blair bill, but had failed to do so.

A Determined Suicide.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

CHICAGO, October 2.—Last night Theodore Ferstenberg jumped from the Indiana-Street bridge into the river. Bridge-Tender MeGraw jumped in after him and a fierce struggle followed, McGraw trying to rescue the would-be suicide and the latter fighting against the rescue, while a crowd gathered on the bridge and looked on at the tragedy. Finally Ferstenberg broke away and sank to rise no more alive. His body was resovered about an hour later. Ferstenberg belonged to a prominent family in Germany, and five years ago was a colonel in the German army. He came to this country, but met financial reverses at every turn. Mr. Jones did not notice during his speech the rantings of Mr. Stubbs except to say that Mr. Stubbs was mistaken about the Anderson-McCormick bill being as bad as the force bill. It required that the three judges should be from the different political parties. The force bill required that the supervisors, the deputy marshals, and the judges of elections should all be taken from the Republican party; that there was not a Republican in the State of Virginia, from constable to congressman, who could truthfully say that they had been cheated out of their election by the Anderson-McCormick bill.

THE DIFFERENCE. THE PROPER THING.

THE DIFFERENCE,

THE DIFFERENCE.

Mr. Stubbs knew that if the force bill passed not one single Democratic congressman would be returned from Virginia if thee had ten thousand majority; that Mr. Stubbs himself had been elected to the Legislature from Gloucester under the Anderson-McCormick bill; that Browne had been twice elected to Congress under the Anderson-McCormick bill; and that neither had been turned out. On the contrary, the Hepublicans in Congress had turned out two Democratic congressmen from Virginia who had been fairly elected, and T. H. Bayley Browne had helped to do it. The leading Republicans in Virginia scknowledged that Langston was not fairly elected and that Mr. Cheadle also said that he was not fairly elected.

Mr. Jones closed his speech amid shouts and hurrahs. It was the first time he had been in King and Queen, but the people rushed to him, shook his hand, congratulated him, and gave him a warm reception. The Democrats of King and Queen are thoroughly aroused and will give Jones at least 200 majority.

Ex.Senator J. G. Conner, of Essex, was In the hand and seemed to be running Stubbs. It was noticed that they were in close conversation during the day.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Democrats of Newport News was held in Johnson's Hall yesterday for the purpose of electing delegates to the Democratic convention which meets in Suffolk Octo-ber 7, 1890, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress for the Second congressional district. Dr. A. C. Jones was elected chairman and E. W. Melstead secretary. The following delegates were elected: W. P. Ballard, B. D. Chandler, and F. C. Loutz. Alternates; C. J. Phil-lips, T. M. THE TIME TO WHITEWASH.

If he was to have been whitewashed the proper time was at the close of Congress. As things now stand the Commissioner is resting under a cloud that is anything but pleasant for the campaign orators of the Republican party who might want to blow about what the grand old party has done for the soldier boys. They can't mention Raum with safety, but the Democrats can, and they will warm him up in the northern and western States. It is reported that General Raum has tendered his resignation to the President.

He spoke for over an hour and gave his position on the tariff, silver, internal-revenue, and other questions in a manner which was greeted with appliause by his hearers. He is an able speaker and has made many friends in Sussex. Sussex will put forth her full strength for Epes. Langston was not represented at the court-

THE LEMON LOAN.

The Commissioner denies it, however, but it will be remembered that when the newspapers first charged that George E. Lemon, the head "pension shark" of Washington, had loaned Raum money, and the latter had advanced cases so that thousands of dollars would be put in the pockets of the "sharks." the Commissioner indignantly denied that Lemon had let him have the money. Afterwards when under oath, Raum admitted that he had borrowed money from Lemon, but said it was $12,000 instead of $25,000, and that was why he had denied primarily the story. The fact of the matter is Raum is a bad egg for this or any other Administration to have in the basket, and he will ultimately have to resign or be removed. THE LEMON LOAN. NONE BUT A SCOUNDREL.

A mean trick was played on Mr. Mason, Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Night before last he was packing his valise to start for Morgantown, W. Va., to attend the wedding of a friend, when a telegram was handed him announcing the death of his mother. Mr. Mason started at once for the place where his mother was visiting, but on reaching there to-day found her alive and well, which good news he wired Deputy Commissioner Wilson. Many telegrams of sympathy had been received here. It is not known here who did such a heartless thing as to telegraph Mr. Mason that his mother had died.

NO REBATE ON TOBACCO.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch. [Special telegram to the Dispatch.]
Washington, D. C., October 2.—It was discovered to-day that the clause in the tariff bill providing for the rebate on unbroken packages of manufactured tobacco had not been included in the enrolled copy of the measure. At first this created something of a sur, but it does not in reality amount to a great deal, as the reduction of two cents a pound on smoking-and chewing-tobacco does not go into effect until the 1st of January, and the manufacturers and dealers will have three months in which to work off the old stock.

WILL PAY BETTER, WILL PAY BETTER.

It will pay them better to do this than to bother with getting the rebate that was provided for in the conference report. It seems that in the hurry that was necessary to rush the tariff bill through during the last few days of the session this omission was made, but it was understood by the conferrees and the clerks of the committees. But the report and the printed bill not agreeing with the enrolled bill, and an apparent omission having been made, it was supposed at the first glance that the mistake would greatly inconvenience the manufacturers and dealers.

CAN BE REMEDIED.

If any confusion should arise the remedy can easily be applied when Congress reassembles in December. It shows though that the Republican managers of the bill were in too great a hurry, and it is believed that when the new law is examined carefully by experts there will be found quite a number of errors. CAN BE REMEDIED.
